Are you your child's hero?

Statistics show that only 19.4% of Australians are volunteering (ABS 2011). These statistics also show that working parents aged between 35 and 54 are the highest contributors.

Studies have shown that contributing to a community group in the form of volunteering fosters positive social normality and a sense of inclusions for the volunteers and their families.

All volunteers to date are parents and also work in some capacity, so we understand the demands parents feel volunteering will place on them. However, we hope that an hour of your time will mean a little less time for everyone.

We still require stall holders for the Lego comp, Gelato & pillow fight stalls.
